

Checklist: Domestic Security

Security Tech Germany

Do you need an alarm system for your home?

ABUS alarm systems conveniently make your life safer and protect the vulnerable areas of your house or apartment. In case of a break-in, you are notified via SMS, e-mail, or voice message. This allows security personnel to intervene quickly. Thanks to mechatronic detectors, the intruder must deal with a combination of sturdy mechanical components and intelligent electronics. But our alarm systems can do even more: In combination with fire alarms, robbery or emergency buttons enable all-round protection for you and your home.

If you answer more than one of the following sentences with yes, we recommend that you consult with one of our specialist dealers to receive advice on the topic of securing your home with an alarm panel.

Take charge of your safety!

Your house is located in a quiet area

Sparsely populated areas are very inviting to burglars. Particularly if your property is large and surrounded by a hedge, your neighbors will not notice an intruder. It also often is quite difficult to get a view of the property. No one on the outside would take notice of an intruder.

You are seldom at home

When no one is home, burglars have an easy job. They can take their time in clearing out all your possessions, inflicting enormous financial damage in the process. Always leaving your house at the same time in particular can lead to you falling victim to burglary. That's because burglars often scout properties before they commit crimes.

There was already a break-in in your neighborhood

Particularly in areas where burglary is a problem, an alarm system can deter burglars. An outdoor sounder can sometimes be very effective, scaring off intruders before they act!

Your house has security weaknesses

Burglars like to take the path of least resistance. Weakly secured doors and windows are easy targets and thus very popular with intruders.

Fire safety is very important to you

The topic of fire safety plays an ever more important role in private households today. Smoke detectors often keep residents from being overcome by smoke in their sleep.

You can connect smoke detectors to your alarm system and be notified by telephone in case of a fire. Smoke detectors save lives!

You are concerned about your personal safety at home

Most accidents occur at home. For older people in particular it is comforting to know that help can be summoned via an alarm panel at the press of a button.